Cover story:

Our front cover shows the wonderful Courage Shire Horses. These working horses are kept busy doing promotions for Courage, one of Reading's largest companies, right through the year. You can meet the animals in "person" at the Courage Shire Horse Centre (on the A4 near Maidenhead) when this popular tourist attraction re-opens to the public in March. Ring the centre (0628) 824848 for details, or (0480) 891642 if you're interested in using the horses for events/weddings etc.

Spring is Here!

Well, almost... and here at The Guide we're looking forward to a season of great entertainment and some really exciting events.

Of course winter gives you the perfect excuse to hibernate - but why should you when there is so much going on in the town? Our clubs and societies are very active at this time of year - why not take up a new interest to fill the long evenings? Or if you prefer a more lively nightlife, don't miss out on the big choice of live music, clubs and other activities on offer?

As the warmer weather approaches Reading starts to buzz as our calendar of great outdoor events gets under way. This year sees the return of the Town Centre Panckae Race, and a new event - The Reading Cheese Fair, a medieval themed event in aid of the Mayor's charities. See our centre page spread for full details and a sneak preview of other events from Reading Borough Council to look forward to in 1995.

Music To Your Ears

NEW HOME FOR JAZZ CLUB

The Reading Jazz Club has moved! But not very far...just across the road to Holme Park (which is exactly opposite the old venue of Reading Cricket and Hockey Club). The change of venue means there are several improvements for Jazz nights - including chairs around individual tables, staging for the artists, a well-stocked bar open all night and a great range of quality bar food. Parking is easy, and all facilities are on the ground floor. As before Jazz nights are on the first Wednesday of the month, doors open at 7.30pm, with music at 8.30pm (til about 11pm). See you there! More info: (01734) 690625.

Hot music for cold nights

Roll Over Beethoven's

One of the best things to happen to the music scene in Reading for a while is the opening of "Beethoven's", a club that has already established itself as one of the top live music venues in the town.

Live bands currently play Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 9pm - 11pm. Music on offer includes cover numbers, light rock and R'n'B. Regular bands who have established a popular following include "The Cat Scratch Band", "Vision", "Rhythm Method", "The High Wasters" and "Pyramid". More good news: Thursday nights are free, and it's only £2 after 9pm on Friday and Saturday.

In addition to live music, "Beethoven's" offers excellent food, including an extensive selection of bar snacks, or you can dine in its 50-seater olde worlde restaurant which provides an extensive a la carte menu at affordable prices.

"Beethoven's" is on the Oxford Road, out of Reading, on the Purley border.

Society Whirl U3A

Does the above mean anything to you? Possibly not, but to hundreds of local people it means an open door to a world of new discoveries. U3A is short for the University of the Third Age, an association for the retired and those no longer in gainful employment. But this is a University in the original sense of the word – a collective of people devoted to learning through self-help.

The group offers many different activities every month, from a luncheon club to an astronomy group.

The huge choice of areas of learning includes first aid, chess, French reading, arts, yoga, music, popular culture, and play reading. If you are interested in joining U3A contact A. Jones on (01734) 580085.

* The group meets on the fourth Monday of the month in the Kennet Room, Civic Centre, Reading, at 2pm. Non-members 50p. All activity groups meet at various locations throughout the week.

THE HISTORY OF READING SOCIETY

Meets every month on a Thursday evening from 7.30pm-9.30pm, at Central Library's Abbey Room (Abbey Square entrance). The object of the Society is to cultivate an interest in and to encourage research into the history of the town of Reading. Membership is open to all those interested in furthering the objects of the Society. The annual subscription is just £7.50 (£10 per couple, retired couple £7.50, single retired £5). You can come to any meeting to learn more about the society (entry 50p) or call the membership secretary on (01734) 696081.

BERKSHIRE ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY

Is one of the areas oldest established societies, founded in 1871 with its headquarters in Reading. The group is essentially an amateur one, which exists to collect and diffuse information concerning the archaeology, history and architecture of the county. Members do not need to have any knowledge of the subject, but the group does have affiliations with many local and professional bodies.

Lecture meetings take place monthly from October to April on Saturday afternoons from 2.45pm - 4.30pm at the Friends Meeting House, Church St (off London St) Lectures cover a wide range of topics, including many on local issues. The practical arm of the Society, Berks Field Research Group, organises regular trips to current excavations, as well as undertaking various local archaeological projects. To increase members understanding of the field a "Archaeology in Berkshire" day school is organised in March, in conjunction with the Extra-Mural Dept of Reading University. During the day the previous year's developments and excavations are reviewed in a series of presentations by local archaeologists. Additionally, each April a weekend trip is organised to a place of archaeological and historical interest. Annual membership of the Society is just £6 (family membership £7.50). If you are interested in joining why not come along to a meeting, or ring the Treasurer, Mr J. Gafford on (0734) 474308

EXPLORATIONS - THE MUSEUM OF READING

Organises a weekly "Exploration" based on the Museum, its collections and matters of local interest. These informal talks are held every Tuesday lunch time in the Earley Charity Room (unless otherwise indicated) and last for about 3/4 of an hour. Talks during February include a talk and guided walk around Reading's historic town centre sites by Molly Casey of the Reading Civic Society, and a fascinating look at some of Reading's listed buildings including town centre pubs and churches by art history lecturer Godwin Arnold. All are welcome and the talks are FREE, but donations welcome. Come along and chat to specialists in a friendly and informal setting. The Museum of Reading is on Blagrove St. Tel: (0734) 399805.

Community Campaigns

READING VICTIM SUPPORT

Victim Support is the national organisation which provides a comprehensive service to victims of crime. The organisation is always looking for new volunteers, to provide support and advice to persons who have suffered as the result of crime. The police normally put Victim Support in contact with innocent people who are victims of assault and burglary amongst other crimes. Volunteers can help with emotional support, crime prevention information, advice on court and police procedures, insurance advice, and lots more. They need to be good listeners, and understanding. The amount of time given to the scheme varies from several hours every week to only occasional help. Volunteers who can provide practical help such as translation and interpreting, fund-raising or even repairing broken windows or doors are also welcome. Volunteers are given comprehensive training and full support from the group. If you'd like to know more contact Reading Victim Support, 18a Castle St, Reading, RG1 7SD. Tel (0734) 391158.

BERKS MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS THERAPY CENTRE

This Caversham based group has organised a new fund raising event for this year - an Auction of Promises, to be held in the Mayor's Parlour, in the Civic Centre, on Thursday 16th March. Hopefully the event will include a lunchtime event and a short evening event for people who can't make the afternoon. If you would like more information please call Lesley Dorrin on (0734) 482072.

HELMET YOUR HEAD FOR CYCLING CRED!

That's the message from the Childhood Injury Prevention Service at the Royal Berks Hospital and Battle Hospitals NHS Trust.

Did you know that over 120,000 people under the age of 16 are injured from cycle accidents each year? 60% of those injured are likely to have received a head injury. Head injury is the most common cause of death in 70% of fatal cycle accidents. Young people aged 12-16 are the largest group injured in cycle accidents. So USE YOUR HEAD! A cycle helmet will give your skull extra help to protect your brain. The brain is the control centre of the whole human body, and it controls your thoughts and memory: if it is damaged any of these important functions could be badly effected and you would not be able to go about your daily life in the same way. Your brain is very important - so make sure you look after it.

About the Campaign

Since the "Helmet your Head" campaign was launched in Reading in 1992, the results have been amazing. Using a mixture of targeted literature for young people, a schools roadshow, community promotions and a low-cost "Hospital Helmet" scheme, the message is getting across to young people that wearing a helmet gives you street cred.

Research among 11-16 year olds, shows that from 10% always wearing a helmet the figure has increased to 30%, and the number of young people who sometimes wear a helmet has risen from about 10% to 30%. But most importantly the number of bicycle related head injuries for under-16's has fallen by 40%

BUT the message still remains - it's important that no matter how short a journey you're making you must wear your helmet. So if you're a young person use your head and wear a helmet - and if you're a parent make sure your child has got a good quality cycle helmet - and that they wear it whenever they go out on their bikes.

Spring into Sport

HALF MARATHON fever is with us again - and you may well have noticed the streets of Reading suddenly filled with joggers, all concentrating on their training for the big day on Sunday, April 30th!

As Reading's biggest participant event (with over 3,000 runners), the "Yellow Pages" Half Marathon is one of the most exciting dates on the sporting calendar - whether you're competing, or just an eager spectator. The route this year is unchanged - leading competitors through West Reading, the town centre, South Reading and Shinfield.

This year the event is under the management of Reading Borough Council's Sports and Leisure division - a new direction for the event following contact Rivermead on (01734) 575184 for an entry form and start running now!

ROAD CLOSURES

Please remember that the Half Marathon is a road race around the town, and as in previous years road closures will be in operation in many parts of the town during Sunday morning (between 9am-12noon approx). Please bear this in mind when planning any journeys on this day. Full details of the route and road closures/bus route changes will be published in the local papers.

See Reading Run!

many year's of hard work by the Half-Marathon's founder and previous organiser Stan Eldon. Because of its many years of involvement in the marathon and other large events, Reading Borough Council was the obvious candidate to take over the organising of the race (which is actually the result of hard work by many groups, including Reading Police, Berks County Council, Reading Buses, and a whole army of volunteer stewards).

All entries (which will be accepted right up until 14th April) are being dealt with by staff at Rivermead Leisure Complex, on Richfield Ave., which is also the race's starting and finishing point.

Thousands of entries have already poured in and the race is also attracting substantial sponsorship support from companies in the town, including YELLOW PAGES and local paper the READING CHRONICLE.

The entry fee is being kept to £9 (£8 if affiliated). For the first time this year PASSPORT TO LEISURE Members receive a special discounted entry fee is £8/£7.

If you think you can rise to the challenge of a gruelling 13 mile race around the town, then

Discovering ~ Dance ~ from India

Sangeetanjali is a new series of Indian music and dance workshops, funded by Reading Borough Council. The workshops are held in 21 South St. Arts Centre every Monday and the course organisers are keen to involve children and adults from all backgrounds.

All workshop members will learn Indian Classical and folk music and dance to perform on stage. In the past, students of Sangeetanjali have performed at some of the town's biggest events - including Children's Festival, Cosmo '94, WOMAD and a Dewali concert at South St.

The new series of workshops started on January 16th, but places could still be available, and you can join the lessons at any stage. The sessions are on from 4pm-6pm, and there are two strands to choose from: Preparing for a "Sangeetanjali" concert (£12 for 10 workshops, or just £10 with Passport to Leisure), and Learn Pure Classical Dance and Music (£24 for 10 workshops, or £20 with Passport).

All ages and abilities welcome - come and join in the fun: for more information call (01734) 599542.

Rising to the Occasion

Do you know Reading? If you think you do and you haven't visited Reading's independent arts centre, then delve a little deeper and investigate what's on offer at the Rising Sun in Silver St. Jazz, blues, folk, and 57 varieties of world music take place alongside two monthly exhibitions, a lively, day-time cafe and a non-stop selection of workshops and classes where you can have a go at anything from raku pottery to haiku poetry. The centre is also home to artists' studios, a local listings magazine and the town's cheapest 16-track recording studio.

Although it's a centre run by local people for local people, the Rising Sun has nevertheless drawn performers from all corners of the globe -

Moroccan percussionists, Romanian gypsies, Indian Classical musicians, New York Jazz musicians and Russia's top string ensemble. If you're looking for something slightly different to the usual staple of pubs and nightclubs then there's a good chance you'll find it at the Rising Sun.

Concerts run every Saturday and many Thursdays - an up to date list of events can be picked up every month from shops in the town centre, the tourist information office or local libraries.

Where Two Rivers Meet

The Story of Kennet Mouth

"Where Two Rivers Meet" is a charming little book that tells the story of one of Reading's loveliest, and most historic areas. Where two rivers meet is Kennet Mouth. Here, where Thames and Kennet merge, is a place of freedom, peace and space on the edge of the city. Between the railway and the rivers, a wedge of countryside, tiny but self-contained and special. This new book, published by three local artists who know the area well (Adam Stout, Peter Hay and Pip Hall) will appeal to those who know and love this part of the town already; lovers of railways and waterways, and anyone who is interested in the preservation of all that is special in our town.

The book is beautifully illustrated and immaculately hand-scripted, and is printed on recycled paper in a 32-page, A5 format. Priced just £4 you can buy a copy at Blackwell's and Friar St. bookshops, Museum of Reading, Blake's Lock Museum, Jelly Legg'd Chicken or Reading Library.

Three Cheers For Cheese

Not many local people will know that centuries ago Reading was famous for its cycle of four major fairs, held every year on the site now covered by The Forbury. Probably the most famous of these events was the Cheese Fair - a huge market which attracted visitors from all over the South, eager to sell and buy their wares: including tons and tons of cheese!

Of course the fairs were about a lot more than just trade - they were a wonderful excuse to celebrate, enjoy musicians and acrobats perform, browse around the colourful market stalls and generally have a great time. For most people the fairs were the only "social" event they had to look forward to, and almost everyone in the town would have attended.

Now - some four hundred years on - the Mayor and Mayoress of Reading have revived the tradition of Cheese Fair in Reading, with a medieval flavoured event on historic Town Hall Square. The event is being held on Saturday, April 8th, between 11am - 4pm, and is in support of the Mayor's charities: Age Concern, Breakthrough, BSAD and Barnardo's.

There will be a variety of stalls, ranging from honey and organic produce, to crafts goods, and of course cheese (though we can't promise several tons of it!). Traditional skills including pole-lathe, hurdle making, and spinning will be demonstrated, and lots of entertainment has been planned - including minstrels, jesters, jugglers and acrobats, and the town crier. This fun new event which should appeal to all ages is being organised jointly by Reading Borough Council and local newspaper the Evening Post. Check for further details about the Cheese Fair in the Post.

By the way the event is free - you don't need a ticket and everyone is welcome.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN!

Head for Reading town centre on Tuesday, February 28th, for the return of the town's traditional Pancake Race (or the Shrove Tuesday Shuffle as it is more aptly known). Once again organised in partnership by the Reading Chronicle and Reading Borough Council, this completely daft race up and down Broad St will include teams entered from local business, sports clubs, Reading Borough Council and the Reading Chronicle. Fancy dress is optional, and previous experience with a frying pan is not required: though some serious pancake-tossing practise is advised before the day to avoid getting egg on your face.

The big race starts at 12 noon, and takes place at the pedestrianised end of Broad St, weather permitting (the runners may be daft but they're not completely mad). This is almost certainly your only chance this year to see well-known local faces making fools of themselves (except for the few who really want to win!), all in aid of the British Sports Assoc. for the Disabled - make sure you're there to cheer them on!

* If your organisation would like to enter a team call (0734) 390358.

Remembering 50 Years On...

As part of the town's "V.E. Day" commemorations in May, the Reading Festival Chorus, together with the Reading Bach Choir and their "twin" choirs from Dusseldorf, will be performing Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem". The groups travelling from Germany to join with our local choirs in what promises to be a remarkable musical event, are the Kreuzkantorei, and the Kantorei der Friedenskirche. Both of these large Dusseldorf choirs are church-based groups, who have built up strong links with Reading's Choirs.

The Reading Festival Chorus is itself celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, so there could be no more appropriate group to perform anniversary of the twinning, and plans are already coming together to celebrate the link.

One of Europe's leading orchestras, Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra, will perform alongside the Choirs, along with soloists drawn from several countries. This wonderful collaboration promises a very memorable and moving event.

Project co-ordinator Bill Ellison says of this very special performance: "Any performance of the War Requiem looks back with anger and sadness to the tragic waste of war, but must at the same time look forward to an era of International co-operation, embracing the hope of the future while remembering the folly of the past. This concert will be an example of that co-operation: an International celebration in music of what can be achieved when people come together and work together. It will be a remarkable night."

The performance is at The Hexagon, on Saturday 6th May, at 8pm. Tickets are available from March 13th at The Hexagon box office, at £15/£12 and £8. (Box Office: 0734 591591).

* Reading remembers V.E. Day: a series of commemorative events are being co-ordinated by Reading Borough Council. A separate leaflet will carry full details or see the next issue of The Guide.

Musical Magic At The Hexagon

English Touring Opera is one of the leading companies to appear in towns throughout the country. Their name is synonymous with high quality, fully staged opera, sung in English with the backing of an acclaimed orchestra.

Two productions are on offer at The Hexagon: Rossini's popular comic opera "The Barber of Seville", which tells the story of Figaro and his attempts to play cupid, and "Orpheus and Eurydice" Gluck's passionate version of the Greek myth, which contains some of the richest and purest vocal music in the repertoire. Ticket prices start at just £7.50 if you have a Passport to Leisure. Ring the Box Office for performance details or see the new Hexagon diary.

There's a rare opportunity to see the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Sir Charles Mackerras, on 9th March at 7.30pm. A programme of Dvorak includes his Carnival Overture, Symphony No. 7, and the Cello Concerto with soloist Stephen Isserlis. The Orchestra of St. John's Smith Square, appear on March 24th, with conductor Stefan Sanderling and pianist Joanna MacGregor. The programme includes Mendelssohn's Hebridean Overture and Symphony No. 3 (The Scottish) and Bach's Piano Concerto in D minor. Tickets for both concerts £20 – £8.50.

Finally, at The Town Hall on March 1st, you can enjoy a St David's Day special when Welshman Tim Hugh (cello) plays Bach's Suites No. 1, 5 & 6. The performance is at 7.30pm, tickets are just £6 from Hexagon Box Office.

March sees a veritable feast of Classical entertainment at The Hexagon. From the broad humour and popular tunes of "The Barber of Seville" to the sublime beauty of Bach's Piano Concerto in D minor, there is music to suit the most demanding of tastes.

GETTING TO KNOW THE KING

A slight change of musical pace with one of Rodgers and Hammerstein's greatest musicals "The King and I" performed by Reading Operatic Society, at The Hexagon from February 28th to March 4th. This well-loved play is performed by popular local company R.O.S., and includes such famous songs as "Shall We Dance", "Whistle a Happy Tune", "Hello Young Lovers" and of course, "Getting to Know You". The show is on 7.30 nightly, with a matinee at 3pm on Saturday. Tickets £7/£8 (All seats Tues and Sat afternoon £5).

Coming Soon

...So Get Your Skates On!

After a remarkable sell-out week at The Hexagon last year, the Russian All Stars Ice-skating Company return to Reading with a new show "Cinderella on Ice" from May 9th-13th. Audiences last year were dazzled by the All Stars feats of high-speed, acrobatic skating and graceful ice-dance. This magical version of the classic fairy tale is set to music by Prokofiev and promises to be a dazzling evening of entertainment, for all ages. The Hexagon is transformed into a 40 foot square ice stage for the show, which includes 24 top Russian ice skaters. The performance is enhanced with stunning costumes and special effects. Early booking is strongly advised, and tickets are priced from £9.50-£18.50 (concs. available) Ring the Box Office for details.

Scene On the Screen

Reel/Notes

Lots of exciting new titles hit the screen in Reading over the next few months - led of course by the eagerly awaited "Interview with the Vampire" starring Tom Cruise. Other titles to watch out for include Anthony Hopkins in "The Road to Wexham", the release of Oliver Stone's "Natural Born Killers", and two likely Oscar candidates - Robert Altman's "Pret A Porter" and Robert Redford's "Quiz Show". This looks like being one of the best seasons ever for

"Black Beauty" (Cert. U) is a new version of the famous Victorian children's novel by Anna Sewall. Directed by Caroline Thompson, who also wrote the screenplay, the film was filmed on location in England, and follows the life of "Black Beauty" from happy days in the country to hardship on the grim streets of London. During his life "Black Beauty" and his friends, experience the best and worst of human nature, while seeking a home where they will be treated with kindness. This new version of "Black Beauty", starring Sean Bean and David Thewlis, and with music by "Batman" composer Danny Elfman, will be at the MGM Cinema, Friar St., in time for the half term holiday - but should appeal to animal lovers of all ages!

MERYL STREEP finds herself in hot water, when she takes her family on a quiet white-water rafting holiday in "THE RIVER WILD" (cert 12). As a woman who grew up navigating the rapids but has become citified, Streep stars in her first action-adventure movie. Her character has to resurrect all her river skills when her family is pursued by killer Kevin Bacon, and she finds herself navigating the rapids to save all their lives! Directed by Curtis (The Hand that Rocks the Cradle) Hanson, at breathtaking speed, with one of the cinema's finest dramatic actresses taking to river navigation skills and hazardous stunt work, like a duck to water.

A "mysterious astronomical phenomena" brings the crews of the Enterprise past and present to the big screen for "STAR TREK: Generations". In what promises to be a remarkable clash of acting styles, the crew of the big-screen "Enterprise" (including William intelligent adult films, but younger audiences are also looked after with three wonderful new versions of children's classics - "Black Beauty", "Little Women" and "The Jungle Book" - which parents should enjoy too!

Shatner, and Walter Koenig) are united with "Next Generation" stars Patrick Stewart, Jonathan Frakes and Brent Spiner when different time frames are brought together. The two Captains of the "Enterprise" work together to defeat alien Dr. Sohan, played by Malcolm McDowell, who plans to destroy whole civilisations to attain his goals. Trekkies of all generations are bound to have a field day!

Oliver Stone's infamous new film "NATURAL BORN KILLERS" finally gets a certificate (and yes it is "18") and arrives at the Odeon in February. Scripted by Quentin Tarantino, but apparently disowned by him, the film is shot in a wild, collage style that looks like a mix of home video and TV news. Thanks to the tabloid press most people will know the story follows the story of a young couple who go on a killing spree and become media celebrities. Intended as an attack against the power of the media, the film may actually be glorifying what it aims to decry. Judge for yourself if you've got the stomach for it...

"QUIZ SHOW" arrives in Reading during the run-up to the Oscars - good timing since it is hotly tipped to pick up a few statues. Directed by previous Oscar winner Robert Redford the film follows one of the most controversial episodes in the early days of television- the fixing of a hugely popular TV quiz to keep the ratings high. An excellent cast is led by Ralph Fiennes, who has made his way rapidly onto the "A" list of Hollywood actors, following a remarkable performance in "Schindler's List". A huge hit in the U.S. - hopefully the film will find an enthusiastic audience here.

Lestat Lives ....?

INTERVIEW WITH THE VAMPIRE reaches Reading's screens.

The vampire Lestat. Timeless and ageless he flows through the centuries on a river of blood which sustains his existence. When he so desires he rewards his victims with immortality - whether they want it or not. Into Lestat's world, in the late 18th Century comes Louis de Pointe du Lac. Amid the stifling atmosphere of a settlement near New Orleans, the air thick with the promise of unearthly desire and unspeakable horror, Louis encounters Lestat.

Two hundred years later, in modern day San Francisco, Louis decides to tell his story of desire, grief, terror and ecstasy to a young reporter, weaving the history that has come to be known as "Interview with the Vampire".

This long-awaited film version of Anne Rice's best-selling novel, was a hit in America - dismissing all worries over whether audiences would accept Tom Cruise in the role of the cruel and beautiful Lestat. The film's director is Neil Jordan, whose last film "Crying Game" was a major success. Jordan says of Cruise's casting in the lead: "When we discovered that Tom was interested in the script, we knew that casting him as Lestat would surprise many people. What struck us after meeting with him was how passionate he was about playing someone as evil as this. Anne Rice describes these vampires as eternally young, with a preternatural beauty about them and an icy kind of control. There were obvious routes we could have gone with the role of Lestat, but we preferred to take someone against type, like Tom, who is a superb actor."

Brad Pitt was first choice for the role of Louis. "Brad just exudes feeling. There is a certain vulnerability to the character of Louis which is very important, and Brad has that side to his nature." The rest of "Interview"'s cast are just as powerful - including Stephen Rea, Antonio Banderas, and Christian Slater as the street-wise interviewer, Malloy. In the pivotal role of the child-vampire Claudia, a young newcomer, Kirsten Dunst, was chosen.

Filming took place in locations as diverse as Pinewood Studios, New Orleans and Paris to create the right feel. Computer-aided effects add to the illusion and the film-makers have succeeded in creating a dark and decadent nightmare world which is also opulent and alluring.

You can judge the final result for yourself - "Interview with the Vampire" is on now at the MGM Cinema, Friar St.

Back to Nature

For the birds

Our unusually mild Autumn has caused a lot of confusion! Bulbs have come up early, spring flowering plants opened in November, and many Summer favourites didn't stop blooming until Christmas. This meant that well into December squirrels, hedgehogs and other wildlife was still out and about, and our birds could find plenty of food still available in the form of insects, berries and worms.

But now the ground has frozen and the birds' regular food supplies are running out, you may want to think about helping your feathered neighbours survive the winter. Wild bird seed, nets of peanuts and feedsticks are easily available at pet shops and supermarkets - or of course you can serve up scraps: brown bread, dried fruit, pastry and cake are all perfect. If the weather is very cold you should also provide a supply of fresh water. But please remember once you have started putting out food, don't suddenly withdraw the supply. Come early spring the birds will once more be able to find their own food sources.

Some of the birds you can expect to see over the winter months include blue tits, blackbirds, sparrows, thrushes and, of course, robins. By the way, if you or your neighbours have got cats it might not be a good idea to encourage birds into your garden!

If you'd like to find out more about wild birds why not join your local branch of the RSPB (Royal Society for the Protection of Birds), ring Don Bowley-Booth on (01734) 816181 for details. Annual membership is just £6, and the group organises regular field trips, talks and slide shows. See diary of events.

Don't forget the Thames Swans over the winter months.

GARDENING NATURE'S WAY

Berkshire Organic Gardeners are a well-established local group who promote gardening the old fashioned way: without using harmful pesticides, herbicides and fertilisers. Instead you can find out all about a huge variety of "natural" remedies for the garden - including, of course, home-made compost and some timeless tricks on pest control (without spraying!). Organic gardening is no more time-consuming or labour intensive than gardening with modern aids - and it is a whole lot better for the environment!

B.O.G. meet most months at Caversham Court Environment Centre, see diary for listings, and if you'd like to know more ring the membership secretary, M. Skinner, on (01734) 470357.

Bar Diner
SAN FRANCISCO

LET'S GO TO SAN FRANCISCO

As luck would have it our party visited San Francisco Exchange on a Monday when Happy Hour stretches to all day and cocktails can be had for just £2.75.

They say they like to do things that bit bigger at Exchange Bar Diners and that's certainly true of the menu, awesome in its choice yet keenly priced to suit all pockets. For example, kids eat for just £3.60 from their special 'Diner Saur's' menu.

Choose from sandwiches to burgers; pasta; pizza; omelette; chicken and seafood; beef and ribs through to Tex Mex, all cooked to perfection and accompanied by authentic dressings direct from America. Try Beverley Hills Pasta and Grand Canyon Apple Pie, which taste just as good as their names sound.

David, James and the team look forward to giving you an outside welcome; from your first Harvey Wallbanger through to your Keoke Cappuccino (laced with Tia Maria, Kahlua and Courvoisier – proclaimed delicious by our intrepid taste testers) it's Hollywood style all the way. JT.

LEIGHTON PARK
MUSIC

involving a large proportion of our own students, alongside professional concerts; lectures; workshops; our annual House Music Competition and the regional National Festival of Music for Youth event, which we are hosting for the third successive

You'll be pleased to hear that the New Year brings a brand new major musical event to Reading. The Leighton Park Music Fest '95 is an exciting new initiative brought to the town by Leighton Park School. The Festival aims to present a challenging and fun mix of musical activities, ranging from a Jazz masterclass with Hilary Cameron, to an African Drumming Workshop, and a "Come and Sing Carmina Burana" workshop and performance.

Ticket prices are amazingly cheap - many of the concerts are just £3, with Passport to Leisure members paying the Concessionary price of just £1. However, many events are FREE and others are just £1. There is even a Music Fest Pass at £30 (£20 for Concs.)

Event organiser Jeremy Hibbins, assistant director of music at Leighton Park says: "This is one of the most adventurous music projects yet undertaken by Leighton Park: 32 events crammed into a 9-day festival of music, year". The FEST runs from March 4th - 12th, inclusive. Some of the highlights include the award-winning Berkshire Youth Jazz Orchestra, Gypsy Jazz, a String masterclass with Brien Stait, and a performance by Central Berkshire Concert Band. For a full programme contact Leighton Park School (address below) or pick up a leaflet at Libraries, the Civic Centre or Hickies.

Fest facts: The Leighton Park Music Fest 1995 is at Leighton Park School, Shinfield Road (A327), Reading, RG2 7DH.

Tel: (01734) 864917. All events are in either the Main Hall or Peckover Hall. Some tickets should be booked early as places are limited. Ring for more details.

TRAVEL BY BUS for FREE:

If you travel by Reading Buses to any of the events simply present your bus ticket and your concert ticket price will be reduced by the amount of your bus fare (MAXIMUM refund is the concert ticket price). Buses 7,8,12,20,61, 62, all stop nearby.

It's Fun Being Young...

Full Steam Ahead

For the young, and the young at heart, it's great fun to take a trip on the miniature steam trains at Prospect Park. The Reading Society of Model Engineers organises a public afternoon on the first Sunday of every month, when you can go along and ride on their model trains. Running starts at 2.30pm, and the rides cost just 20p. If you are interested in model engineering - which can include anything from clocks to trains, please contact the Society on (0734) 667764.

All aboard for fun...

Learning a tricky trick at a Reading Children's Event

Fun at East Reading Adventure Playground

Children have their very own special place in East Reading - the Adventure Playground based on London Rd, at the side of Palmer Park. ERAPA, which is also a community venue, is busy throughout the year with a programme of sessions serving all ages of children - from the under 5's to youth groups. But the Centre is also a base for other community activity - with adults made to feel very welcome and invited to get involved in all sorts of activities at the Centre. Make a note in your diary to come along to ERAPA's OPEN DAY on Monday, February 20th from 10am-4pm. A whole day of fun is planned to launch the Special Needs Play Area at the site - why not come and discover the centre for yourself. If you'd like to know more contact the East Reading Adventure Playground Assoc, on (0734) 667577.

Reading Children's Information Centre has the answer..

Reading offers many services for children. But how can you find out about them? The Reading Children's Information Centre has the answers. Established in 1990, the Centre is a registered charity providing free information to parents and carers on all childcare and children's activities in Reading, Newbury and Wokingham. You can either ring or drop into its friendly office in Queen's Walk, opposite The Hexagon, to get information on childminders, toddlers groups, playgroups, nurseries, leisure activities and after school or holiday clubs. Enquiries about nursery equipment, doctors, dentists, and support groups for parents are also welcome. In short, the Centre's information list is almost endless, and its motto is "what we don't know we'll find out". Reading Children's Information Centre has successfully carried out consultancy work for local companies and councils. Based on the assessment of the childcare needs of employees, the Centre develops individually designed information packs with childcare recommendations. The Centre is constantly concerned with children's issues. Most recently this has included participation in the 1994 Child Friendly Reading Scheme. This campaign, which assessed the child friendliness of shops, stores, restaurants and banks, awarded the friendliest establishments, and compiled the results of the survey in a special guide for parents - available from the centre. The future for the centre promises to be exciting. Director, Jenny Layley says: "The main task will be to maintain our high standard of accurate information and make companies more aware of the services we offer. A leaflet will shortly be sent to companies in and around Reading, with the aim of holding a second child-care conference". The Centre is funded mainly by Thames Valley Enterprise until March

The Mayor of Reading, staff and supporters celebrate the Children's Centre opening 1996, and 8 paid staff undertake the daily running of the office together with an enthusiastic team of volunteers. The Centre is open from Tuesday - Friday, 10am-3pm, with a 24-hour answering service. Reading Children's Information Centre, Queen's Walk, Civic Centre, Reading. Tel: (01734) 509499.
